

RESTAURANT RALLY

Where to Eat When: 66 Perfect Meals

From swell salads and late-night bites to discreet dates and more—your most pressing summer dining dilemmas, solved.

By Tom Passavant and Amanda Rae • Photography by C2 Photography • 5/24/2017 at 11:15am • Published in the Summer 2017 issue of Aspen Sojourner

A real meal is necessary, and it's after midnight.

While slices at New York Pizza might taste like masterpieces under certain circumstances, options are scarce for those seeking a swankier setting in the wee hours. By scarce, we mean two. Rickhouse Social, the nightclub and whiskey bar beneath Aspen Kitchen, serves executive chef Matthew O'Neill's craveable bar menu from the restaurant upstairs until 12:30 a.m. Try tater tots with caviar and house-made crème fraîche, "clothesline bacon," or a massive 30-day-aged burger on beef-fat brioche. Three blocks west, Hooch slings speakeasy snacks inspired by upstairs restaurant Meat and Cheese until 1 a.m.: charcuterie boards and heartier plates with Asian flair, including pork bánh mì and spicy dan dan noodles.